

Nate Schmoll

Graphic designer, web application programmer, information technology guru, creative genius about me I perform work under the auspices of my business name, InspireAwe Corporation. Based out my home office in Redmond, Washington, I work with many clients, other designers, and experts in my industries of work. You should know that I'm a bit quiet and reserved, but I'm an excellent listener and I can get along with anyone!

my goal My work is exciting. I do it because I love it. The best part about my work is meeting new people and working in different circumstances. I wish to obtain the widest variety possible of projects and clients. My goal is to work with as many people as possible in as many industries as possible. This goal is possible because I make my clients happy. They tell others about me and then I get to meet new people!

my skills

- visual design: raster photo graphics; vector layout & design graphics; print; web
- web development: Linux, Apache, MySQL, PostgreSQL, & PHP (LAMP/LAPP)
- information technology: Netscreen; Check Point; IPCop; pfSense; Linux; Windows rate I usually perform work at an hourly rate. This seems to be the most efficient method and is usually acceptable to both parties. Discounts are available for guaranteed project commitments. Current rate: $195 per hour availability I strive to be there when my clients need assistance, but I'm a busy guy. Please check with me for my current availability. School demands a significant amount of my time, but I will do everything I can to help my clients.
